from Britton (1980).
A common and sometimes abundant resident and wanderer in forest and woodland up to 1500 m with a curious patchy distribution. While ranging south along the coast from Witu and the Tana River to Mikindani, it is unrecorded in coastal Kenya south of Sokoke Forest and uncommon or absent in much of coastal Tanzania. There are scattered records from much of Interior Tanzania south of 5° S, west to Lake Tanganyika and north to the Usambaras (East and West), the foothills of the North Pare Mts and Mt Kilimanjaro, and the Kahambwe River in Kibondo. In Kenya it ranges west of Kiboko, Kitui, Thika, Embu and Meru, mainly south of the equator.
